EXEMPTION BOARD RECLASSIFIES MEN

Men Recently In Class 4 Again Reclassified In One.

Under order of the Provost Marshal General's office the local exemption board recently reclassified all the men in draft list, and classed more than three hundred men in class 1 who had formerly been placed in classes 2, 3 and 4. The order provided that all men so reclassified should have the right of appeal and to provide additional evidence why they should not be so classified. After the filing of appeals, which was done by most of the men whose class had been changed to 1, the local board reopened many cases and made a large number of changes. By the result of this work the following named men who had been changed from classes 2, 3 and 4 back to 1 have again been changed back to class 4.

DESERTERS APPREHENDED.

Theodore Bailey and Ernest Hurt, deserters from the army were arrested by deputy sheriff Frank Roberts Saturday night and brought here for safe keeping until they were conveyed to Camp Taylor Tuesday, where they were turned over to the provost marshal. Hurt is twenty one years old, and is a son of Lili Hunt, of Olaton. He enlisted at Hartford in July of last year and was sent to Ft. Thomas from which place he deserted Oct. 26. His excuse for desertion is that his mother needed him at home. The Bailey boy is a son of Gran Bailey, of Rosino, and is twenty-years old, but looks sixteen. He volunteered in Louisville, and ran away from camp about three months ago.

Bailey's only excuse for desertion is that he was homesick. The lowest penalty for desertion in time of war is ten years at hard labor in a federal penitentiary. The boys say when their trials are called they are going to ask for the privilege of going immediately to France. Hurt's mother arrived in Hartford near dawn Tuesday morning to consult an attorney in regard to her son's case, but there is probably little to be done for him as this is his second desertion. He deserted from the navy about a year ago.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The board of education has decided to have all the schools in each division begin on the same date. Those in divisions Nos. 2, 4, and 5, opened Monday, July 8. Those in division No. 1 will open the first Monday in August, division 3 the second Monday in August and those in division 6 the third Monday in July.

The first payment to teachers will be made the second Saturday in September. The Superintendent will require the teachers of each division to have their reports in the hands of the board member the last Saturday in the month, that they may all be sent in together, and where teachers do not comply with this rule they will be required to wait until the end of the succeeding month for their pay.

LITTLE BOY DROWNED.

Walter, the six year old son of Mr. Dud Gray, a farmer living about two miles below town, was drowned in Rough river late Tuesday afternoon. The Grays live on the bank of the river just above the mouth of Bens Lick creek. The little boy and a small girl were playing near the water's edge when the boy ventured in and went beyond his depth. The little girl made an effort to rescue him and got hold of him, but was unable to drag him to shore. It was thirty minutes before help arrived and the body recovered. Dr. Ford was called but his service proved fruitless to revive life. A remarkable feature of the incident was that the body of the boy did not sink, but continued to float on the surface of the water. It is believed that his clothing chambered sufficient air to keep the body afloat. The funeral was held Wednesday morning and the body was buried at Central Grove. The parents of the child have the sincere sympathy of the community in their sorrowful loss.

A LENGTHY PRE-MARRIAGE VOYAGE

Miss Mary Carroll Smith, of Fordsville, and Mrs. Rowan Holbrook, of this place, after considerable delay, due to technicalities to overcome in these war-times in securing passports, commenced a journey Tuesday which will take them more than half way around the world, the end of which is to be Manila, P. I., where Miss Smith will be united in marriage to McHenry Holbrook. The wedding will take place the latter part of August.

Miss Smith and Mrs. Holbrook expect to sail from San Francisco, Cal., on the 17th, going by way of Hawaii, Yokohama, Japan, and Hongkong, China, spending a couple of weeks in Japan and China and Japanese-Chinese waters before reaching Manila. Miss Smith is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. T. Smith, Jr., of Fordsville, and is a cultured and well beloved young lady, while Mr. Holbrook is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Holbrook, of this place, and for some time past has held an important position with the International Banking Corporation located in the Philippine Capital.

Mrs. Holbrook will spend some two months with her son and his bride before starting for home.

KILLED BY A MULE.

Everett Midkiff, of near Olaton, was killed Friday by falling from a mule he was riding, and hanging his foot in the mules harness. He had been plowing the mule, unhooked for dinner and was giving it water at a well when it became frightened at a dog and started to run. The boy's foot got caught in the harness as he fell from the mule's back, and it dragged him several hundred yards. His body was badly mutilated. His remains were buried at Magan Saturday. Young Midkiff was seventeen years old, and a son of Mr. Willie Midkiff.

A LITTLE TRAGEDY.

Another act in one of life's painful tragedies was played in the county Judge's office here Wednesday, when through the intervention of the court an estranged father and daughter were brought together for another effort to live amicably together.

A few months ago Martha, the seventeen years old daughter of Mr. James Hattler, of Balzertown, left home on account of an alleged inability to get along agreeably with her father. The girl's father made repeated efforts to get the girl to return home, which she steadily refused to do. Recently Mr. Hattler invoked the aid of the court in his effort to get the girl to return home, but when the officer went with a writ for her several days ago she had measles and could not be moved. At the time the girl was staying with relatives at McHenry. Knowing her father was employing court process to have her return home, the girl left McHenry and went to Drakesboro, in Muhlenburg county. Wednesday morning special deputy Joe Wilson went to Drakesboro and brought the girl here where her father was waiting for her. Judge Cook heard the girl's story of a father's rough treatment and the father's story of the girl's disobedience, after which he gave Mr. Hattler custody of the girl, with instruction to make periodic reports as to how they were getting along. The Hattlers are good people, and all the trouble seems to be due to unrestrained temper.

WAR CONFERENCE.

A county War Conference will be held at the court house here Thursday, August 8. The purpose of the meeting is to further educate the people to a proper realization of America's place and duty in the war. A number of well known speakers will deliver addresses. Among these will be a soldier who has gone through the hell of war in France, and when no longer able to hold his place on the firing line came home to arouse the spirit and energy of this country to do its part in the great struggle for human rights.

It will be an all day meeting, and every citizen in the county, who can possibly do so should be here. The meeting will be held under direction of Mr. Rowan Holbrook, Chairman of the Ohio County Board of National Defense.

THE PASS EVIL.

The free pass is passing. It has come to be classed as an evil. Congress as well as most of the states has legislated against the pass. It is regarded as a mild form of bribery, and its corrupting influence is to be removed.

It has been the custom of railroad companies, steamboat lines, cruises and carnivals to give passes to public officials and to the press, by reason of which the officials were expected to prosecute with some degree of allowance and the press to knock with a cushioned knocker. The free pass is an insidious temptation, even to the very elect. One of the saddest incidents illustrating the alluring influence of the pass that has come to our knowledge recently occurred while the carnival was here last week. A young man with the innocence of a babe and the purity of a primrose; a young man whose calling demands that he teach by example as well as by precept, and lead his followers in the straight and narrow path, was lured by a pass to attend a dance, a carnival dance. For four anxious nights he had carried the poisonous pass in his pocket unused, but on the fifth, learning that one of the old fathers in Israel was doing the turkey trot with the carnival girls under the big tent, he yielded to the temptation and passed in. But let us be generous with the young man. His intentions were good but the pass, the tempting, seductive pass, tempted him and he fell. Truly the pass is a cardinal evil.

HITTEN BY MAD DOG.

Mrs. Arthur Petty, of Henderson, was bitten by a dog afflicted by rabies, Sunday. Mrs. Petty was hurried to Bowling Green Monday, where she will be given the Pasteur treatment for rabies. The dog's head was also sent for examination. The many friends of Mrs. Petty, in Ohio county, will anxiously await news of effective treatment.

PROGRESS OF THE WAR.

No large developments mark war activities of the past week. The Italian drive of the Austrians has slowed down. It is not now believed the Austrian army will renew its offensive on the Italian lines. Austria has been begging Germany for help, but the steady stream of American soldiers arriving in France makes it unsafe to transfer German divisions from the western to the eastern front.

On the western front there has been much artillery and air activity, but no signal advances have been made. American and French soldiers have taken some territory and prisoners, and as a whole the allies have been on the offensive. The much heralded German drive, that was to exceed all others in energy and fierceness has not materialized.

An independent government has been set up in Siberia that will organize an army and make an effort to get Russia back into the war on the side of the allies. The United States and Japan will lend assistance as soon as the movement assumes definite proportions.

WELCOME RAINS.

Reports from every section of the county of good rains Monday are encouraging. Fields, and especially gardens, were suffering for moisture, and relief came in the nick of time. The rain began some time in the night and continued well into the morning. It was a soaking rain without wind, and will mean many thousands of dollars to Ohio county crops and gardens. The corn crop is late and uneven and the late planting of tobacco was dying in the hills. Vegetation everywhere is revived and crop prospects are very much improved. With the exception of the early potato crop, which was past help, there is now a good prospect for a splendid crop in the county.

OFFICERS ON JOB.

A large measure of credit is due our county officials for stopping gambling at the carnival here last week. It was the duty of the city officials who licensed the carnival to exhibit here to see that it observed the law, but when they failed in that duty the county officials came to the rescue, arrested the ringleader and broke up the games of chance. A carnival cannot pay running expenses in legitimate exhibition, and depends upon gambling as the chief source of its income. After the officers made the arrest the carnival people took down their gambling tents and packed them for shipment elsewhere. With this demonstration of the purpose of our county officials not to tolerate gambling it is a safe bet that hereafter carnivals will steer clear of Hartford.

HANDKNITTING WASTEFUL.

A crusade has been started against the wasteful process of hand knitting socks, sweaters, and other useless garments for soldiers. The benevolent intentions of the good women who wear out their fingers and waste vast quantities of wool in such work, are recognized, but it is impractical. A writer says he has never seen a soldier on the field wearing a sweater or hand knit socks, and that the only use he has ever seen the wristlet put to was as a dust shield to keep the dust out of the working parts of his rifle. This writer declares the soft wool used by the hand knitters is fit only for the cradle, not for the trenches. But were the stuff serviceable it is a waste of energy. One man operating a machine will do more knitting in a day than 7,500 women working with needles. The logic of these arguments appeals to us, and we would advise our good Ohio county women knitters to divert their energies into more practical channels.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Judge Sneek remained over for the Fourth of July fair, and held a brief session of court Friday. Only equity cases were heard.

L. L. Arbuckle, executor of the estate of N. F. Arbuckle, deceased, was awarded a judgment against F. L. Arbuckle for $350.

Daisy Kate Taylor was granted a divorce from E. T. Taylor, and her maiden name of Daisy Kate Baker restored.

The case of R. C. Vance against the Broadway Coal Company was dismissed.

missed settled, the company paying the cost.

U. S. Faught was given a judgment against M. A. Faught for $136. Mrs. Emma Balls, administrator of the estate of Harry E. Balls awarded judgment for $109, against Mrs. Henrietta Balls.

An order of division of land was ordered in the estate of Joe Ferguson, deceased. The land is to be divided between Vivian Ferguson, Maggie Ferguson and Beatrice Ilean. J. C. Smith, Joe Malsden and J. H. Wilson were appointed commissioners to make the division.

E. F. Rander was given a judgment against the McHenry Lumber Company for $425. A number of orders were entered in the matter of motions and demurrers.

BOYS AND GIRLS PICNIC.

The Boys' and Girls' agricultural clubs will have a picnic at Peters Cave, near McHenry, Thursday, July 18. Every boy and girl in the county who is interested in agriculture is expected to be present and take part. In fact everybody interested in farming should come out to hear the speakers discuss the matter of making two blades of grass grow where one grew before, and how to do it without increasing acreage or labor. Bring the boys and girls and a lunch with you, and don't forget to bring a little extra along for county agent Browder.

State Agricultural Agent Otis Kercher, District Agent Hswkins, and F. E. Merriman, will deliver addresses.

THE WRONG MEDICINE.

Ed Kirtley, of Simmons, had a narrow escape from fatal poisoning when he took a bichloride tablet thinking it was a head ache medicine, here Friday. Bichloride is a slow but deadly poison, and it was only by the prompt action of physicians in emptying his stomach by an emetic before the deadly drug had been absorbed by his system that the man's life was saved.

BOILED DOWN.

It is said that Germany has 200,000 of her own citizens prisoners on charges for political offenses; many of them children charged with stealing food.

33,000,000,000 cigarettes were smoked by American citizens last year.

Lieutenant Governor James D. Black announces that when the proper time comes he will declare his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor.

There are 251,000 American soldiers on the fighting line in France.

The senate has passed a law raising the price of wheat to $2.50 per bushel, but it is announced that if passed by the lower house the President will veto it.

The state has leased a farm of 650 acres near Hopkinsville and will operate it with prison labor from the Eddyville penitentiary.

According to income tax reports Kentucky has $1 millionaires.

The government crop report for July estimates the wheat crop 40,000,000 bushels below the June statement.

It is claimed now that all danger of a sugar famine is past but the government has not removed restriction on its use.

Nearly a hundred people were killed in a railway wreck near Nashville Monday.

The Police Judge of Shelbyville has declared the anti-shipping liquor law passed by the last legislature, unconstitutional.

The Kentucky wheat yield, now coming from the thresher, is not coming up to all that was expected of it.

BONE DRY MEASURE NEAR UNTO VICTORY

First Test Skirmish For Prohibition Wins By 36 To 33.

Washington, July 10.—Supporters of national prohibition as a war emergency measure won their first fight tonight when the Senate refused to sustain a ruling by Senator Saulsbury, of Delaware, president pro tempore, that the Norris prohibition amendment to the $11,000,000 emergency agricultural bill should be stricken from the measure because it is general legislation.

Consideration of the amendment followed immediately, with Senator Phelan, of California, offering a motion to strike out all reference to wine. The motion will come to a vote tomorrow, and prohibition leaders expect to reach a final vote on the amendment within a few days unless more pressing legislation displaces the agricultural measure.

Says Rules Violated. The point of order was raised by Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, who claimed the amendment which prohibits the sale except for export of intoxicating liquors, after January 1, next, and the manufacture of beer and wines after November 1, is general legislation attached to an appropriation bill in violation of the Senate rules.

Altho the chair's decision was overruled by a narrow margin, 36 to 33, prohibition leaders decried their full strength was not marshaled against the ruling, as many senators who favor prohibition voted to sustain the chair, and that the amendment will be adopted by an overwhelming majority.

WELLKNOWN MAN DEAD.

Mr. Hice Condit died at his home near Matanzas, early Sunday morning and his remains were interred in the Pleasant Hill burying ground Monday. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. D. Bennett. Mr. Condit died of stomach trouble with which he had been afflicted for some years. The trouble had taken a more acute form within the past two months. He leaves a wife and three children.

Mr. Condit was one of the county's best citizens, and was wellknown throughout the county. He was office deputy under county clerk Mose Ragland for several years, and later entered the Internal Revenue service at Owensboro, in which service he continued for about ten years. He resigned from the revenue service about three years ago, since which time he has devoted his attention to farming. The Republican extends condolence to family and friends.

TAX COMMISSIONER BUSY.

Tax Commissioner Ward is as busy as an old hen with a big brood of chickens. He is making the first real assessment of the property of the county. It is being done slowly but thoroughly, and when completed Ohio county will be amazed at the volume of its taxable wealth. Mr. Ward is not attempting to assess the property at an extravagant value, but is conscientiously discharging his duty as directed by the State Tax Commission. So far the land assessed has been valued at about fifty per cent above former assessment values, and live stock at an increase of one hundred per cent. A steady stream of taxpayers are coming to the Commissioner's office to assess their property.

THE RED CROSS.

We regret to have to mention the fact that the Red Cross work is not being pushed here with the vigor and energy that attended the earlier days of its organization. The needs of the unfortunates are greater now, and a greater number are in need. Let us kindle anew the fires of our enthusiasm.

The Ohio county chapter of the Red Cross has been called upon for the following service to be completed by September 1:

One hundred Hospital bed shirts, sixty-five chemises for misses over ten years old, one hundred sweaters and five hundred pairs of socks.

SHELBY SLEUTHS ARE OVER ZEALOUS

Instructors, Shadowed As Spies By Hattiesburg
'Sherlocks'

(Louisville Herald.)

Hattiesburg, Miss., June 6.—Nine o'clock had struck in Hattiesburg and save for the wanderings of a few soldiers and "night owls" emerging from picture shows, Hattiesburg was as desolate as "The Deserted Village" of book lore. Calm and quiet are two of the greatest assets of this part of the world. This is just the place for persons of shattered nerves who wish to be cured of insomnia for there is nothing to hinder a person from enjoying a prolonged embrace of Morpheus except one should be bold enough and violently fight the god of sleep.

During these tranquil nights it frequently occurs that members of the police force find time to sharpen their wit and sense to "scent" by pursuing the leaves of Sherlock Holmes. One of the "finest" of Hattiesburg had just finished one of the most baffling mysteries which had been unraveled by the peerless "detective." He sallied forth on the streets with the determination that if any evildoers were abroad they would not escape his Argus eyes.

Presently his vigilance, stimulated by reading of fictitious performances, was rewarded. For lo and behold! Right before his eyes he beheld three strangers. They were conversing earnestly in a foreign tongue. The language was French, but that did not worry the wiley guard of the law since he could not understand nor distinguish French from Chinese.

Trails Wily "Spies."

"Spies," was the thought which flashed through his brain. And spies the men were as far as he was concerned. He trailed the men who bore a distinguished appearance. He met a member of the military police force, who in his native state had cracked corn and viewed mountain scenery. He confided his suspicion to the man in uniform and met with sympathy. The M. P. joined in the sleuthing expedition with a vim. Yet no attempt was made to molest the strangers, but not for a moment did the four eyes of the detectives leave them.

A deputy sheriff who happened to be near was called into consultation. He listened to the conversation of the men under suspicion.

"Better Nab 'Em."

"Sure, they're spies, better nab 'em," this worthy declared. The policeman suddenly saw vision of a chief's badge, the deputy began to dream of sheriffdoms and the M. P. began to feel captain's bars sprouting on his shoulders.

All doubts that the men were "13-karat spies, friends of the Monster of Potsdam, members of the Soas of 'Gehenna," and other "Made in Germany" organizations were cleared away with the arrival of a member of the local secret service office. Naturally it behooves secret service operative to be exceedingly careful. Accordingly the operative carefully "got an earful" of the foreign tongue of the men, observed their gesticulations and studied their profile in all positions.

"Foreigners" Surrounded.

Another animated conference was held by the quartet of sleuths. The

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did
For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for women's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is at your service.

head of the pow-wow was the stealthy approach of the four members of the various branches of law and order. Carefully executing their offensive, the officers completely surrounded the "foreigners." They were asked kindly to accompany the quartet to the county jail.

Here the "suspicious" trio voluntarily protested against the arrest. "Don't you know who we are?" quoth they. "We are instructors in French at Camp Shelby."

Prave Y. M. C. A. Instructors. Supercilious smiles curved about the lips of the wise devotees of Nick Carter.

"Tell that to someone else," said they. The men under suspicion insisted the camp be communicated with. Reluctantly the officers permitted their prisoners to communicate with the Y. M. C. A. at Camp Shelby. It was said that a secretary would be dispatched to the jail forthwith.

"We are Y. M. C. A. workers," insisted the "spies."

"Where are your uniforms?" triumphantly responded the captors. "At the camp; we did not put them on to-night."

"Well, we'll see," said one of the sleuths with a broad grin.

Shortly the secretary arrived. He looked at the forlorn group under suspicion; then at the quartet of Dame Justice's favorite sons. Then he flushed, grew angry and stammered forth:

"You have made a grave error, gentlemen. These gentlemen are not spies. They are instructors in French at Camp Shelby. They are Professors J. P. LeCocq, of the University of Lorraine; Jules Frelin, of the University of Minnesota, and H. L. Gonnaz, of Vanderbilt University."

Grinlag sheepishly, the vigilance committee apologized and opened the doors of freedom to the persecuted trio of pedagogues.

The three "college stars" are wearing their Y. M. C. A. uniforms since the incident and the members of the police force have sent their volumes of Sherlock Holmes to the camp library.

FOOD COST INCREASES.

Prices of food as a whole advanced 14 per cent in the year from March 15, 1917, to March 15, 1918, according to the May report of the Bureau of Statistics and Labor. The same report goes on to say:

In this one-year period the only decline in price is that of potatoes. This article decreased 51 per cent. Cornmeal shows the greatest increase, or 75 per cent. Sugar shows the least increase, or 4 per cent.

The increases in the prices of the other article range from 14 per cent to 47 per cent, and are in detail as follows: Rib roast, 14 per cent; flour and sirloin steak, 15 per cent; pork chops, 21 per cent; eggs, 27 per cent; ham, 31 per cent; milk, 35 per cent; lard, 39 per cent, and bacon, 47 per cent.

Food as a whole was 59 per cent higher in March, 1918, than in March, 1913. Lard increased 172 per cent and cornmeal, 145 per cent. The increase in only four articles was less than 50 per cent. Eleven articles increased over 50 per cent, and three over. The percentages of increase in of these increased 100 per cent and detail for this five-year period are as follows: Cornmeal, 175 per cent; lard, 112 per cent; sugar, 104 per cent; bacon, 87 per cent; ham and sugar, 69 per cent; bread, 68 per cent; potatoes, 67 per cent; eggs and pork chops, 66 per cent; milk, 51 per cent; round steak, 49 per cent; rib roast, 38 per cent; sirloin steak, 37 per cent, and butter, 33 per cent.

OUR CITY COUSINS.

A young lady hurried into a city butcher shop and said: "A month ago I bought three very fine hams in here. Have you any more of them?"

"Yes, indeed, madam," replied the butcher. "Would you like some more of them?"

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

PARLOR BOLSHIEVISM.

(By Theodore Roosevelt in the Metropolitan.)

The most powerful indictment of the corrupt and inefficient tyranny of the Romanoffs, or rather of the Russian autocracy, is that it produced Bolshevism.

Dreadful though it is that despotism should ruin men's bodies, it is worse that it should ruin men's souls. Vast physical distress was caused by the centuries of despotism which Russia owed to the fact that 600 years ago she lacked military ability to repel the Mongol warriors. But this is outweighed by the dreadful qualities of soul which the despotism produced in those who suffered under it.

We in America have a direct interest in this evil phenomenon. From the tyranny to Russia great numbers of Russians fled hither. Many of these—Mary Antin is a type—were eminently fit to live in a land which, with all its faults, is a land of freedom and of opportunity, and these gave much to the land which gave them so much. But many have been merely sources of poisonous corruption to the nation which gave them an asylum. Many of the Bolshevik exiles to this land returned to Russia when the revolution broke out, and most of these were filled with venom for this country. The prime cause lay not in our shortcomings—many though these are—but in their own corroded souls. This moral corrosion made them preach and practice the gospel of hatred and malice, not only toward all men of wealth, whether they did good or evil, but toward all honest, hard-working, decent-living men and women who were not consumed by mean envy of others.

These Russian exiles were not asked to come here. They came here so as to be free from persecution and to better themselves. They owe this country everything. But the only emotions aroused in the Bolshevik type are mean hatred, mean desire to slander and a self-pity both mean and morbid. The moral and mental attitude it introduces into this country is much more permanently mischievous than the bubonic plague, and against it we should erect a far more rigorous quarantine. The oppressed of other lands who have developed this kind of character should be kept out of this land at all hazards, and our immigration laws should promptly be changed accordingly. There are plenty of sordid and arrogant capitalists in this land, but their most harmful and unlovely traits are no worse and no more dangerous than those of this particular type of professional proletarian. In its full development it produces the Trotskyes, who have brought Russia to the brink of the abyss, and the Hillquits and Victor Bergers and Eastmans, who would lead our people into a complete ruin of which one item would be subjection to the German autocracy. The most sordid capitalists and reactionaries can do no more harm to this country than these men, if given power, would do. The worst horrors of politics and business stand no lower than these leaders of the American Bolsheviks, of the I. W. W., the Germanized Socialists, the anarchists and all the squalid crew who preach the gospel of envy and hatred, who preach a class war, which, when preaching is translated into action, expresses itself through the bomb and the torch.

These men are encouraged, and our own moral fiber is weakened, by the parlor or pink tea Bolshevism dear to the hearts of so many of our people who like to think of themselves as intellectuals, and who are, perhaps, particularly apt to find expression for their views in the new republic. Most certainly, hard indifference to the conditions and opportunities of the immigrant is a hideous wrong, but it is not bettered by a dilettante sentimentalism on behalf of wrong. We must never view the immigrant merely as a labor unit. We must think of him only as a future citizen, whose children are to share with our children the heritage of this land. We must do for him everything that is right, and we must tolerate from him nothing that is wrong.

The Bolsheviks have no lesson to teach America except what to avoid. They have betrayed democracy in America, England and France. They have plunged Russia into ruin. They have hoped by this betrayal of their allies to make peace with the German militaristic autocracy, and then to betray it in turn. But the Germans were just as false, cunning and treacherous and a thousand times more able; and having made the Bolshevik publish themselves to the world as traitors to liberty, they have now proceeded to trample them under foot. And the Bolshevik showed willingness only to fight their fellow Russians; they were helpless before the German invaders.

THE SOLDIER'S CHANCES.

Great as the danger and large as the losses in the aggregate, the individual soldier has plenty of chances of coming out of the war unscathed, or the least not badly injured.

Based on the mortality statistics of the allied armies, a soldier's chances are as follows:

Twenty-nine chances of coming home to one chance of being killed.

Forty-nine chances of recovering from wounds to one chance of dying from them.

One chance in 500 of losing a limb.

Will live five years longer because of physical training, is freer from disease in the Army than in civil life, and has better medical care at the front than at home.

In other wars from 10 to 15 men died from disease to 1 from bullets; in this war 1 man dies from disease to every 10 from bullets.

For those of our fighting men who do not escape scatheless, the Government under the soldier and sailor insurance law gives protection to the wounded and their dependents and to the families and dependents of those who make the supreme sacrifice for their country.

A NEW WORLD.

On every hand we hear the hopeful sentiment expressed, "It will be a new world after the war."

And so it will; indeed it is a new world already. If a year ago anyone had predicted half that has come to pass we should have stoned him as an evil prophet and declared his predictions impossible.

But here we are raising wheat under a price fixed by the Food Administration. The Government operation of railroads has come suddenly, even naturally—a dream realized overnight with neither opposition nor disaster. Both our food and our fuel are so thoroughly "controlled" that the amount of sugar and flour we may eat, the temperature at which we may keep our homes, and the proportion of the staples of life we are individually allowed to purchase or to possess are determined for us by elected autocrats perhaps some hundreds of miles away—and all in the name of democracy.

What we may not eat or wear and what we may not consume in manufacture are decided now on the score of public welfare, not upon private choice or the ability to pay. We shall untail our loining of expensive autos; for example, for the very good reason that they will not now be made in unlimited numbers. The antitrust laws are knocked into a cocked hat and certain combinations of trade that have been hitherto declared illegal are now demanded by the highest necessity.

What is most remarkable is the fact that most of our regulations are extra-legal, inspired for reasons of public welfare, accepted and observed by common consent, and enforced by public opinion.

The old law of "every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost" seems to have been tumbled into the discard, and men work and die now, not for themselves but for democracy—the right of the fellow to live has life. To this end the rich and the poor, the exalted and the humble labor together, performing all things needful. No longer is any necessary thing labeled "menial," and every man is, for the time at least, "his brother's keeper." Who would have imagined a year ago that so much could have been so quickly accomplished in a single twelve months!

So far have we gone along the highway of progress and toward a new world—so much for having been scared stiff and for once in our lives brought face to face with fundamental realities.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running ear or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surface of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, etc.

Meat Must Be Sold

Fresh meat is perishable. It must be sold within about two weeks for whatever it will bring.

A certain amount of beef is frozen for foreign shipment, but domestic markets demand fresh, chilled, unfrozen beef.

Swift & Company cannot increase prices by withholding meat, because it will not keep fresh and salable for more than a few days after it reaches the market.

Swift & Company cannot tell at the time of purchasing cattle, what price fresh meat will bring when put on sale. If between purchase and sale, market conditions change, the price of meat must also change.

The Food Administration limits our profit to 9 per cent on capital invested in the meat departments. This is about 2 cents per dollar of sales. No profit is guaranteed, and the risk of loss is not eliminated.

As a matter of fact, meat is often sold at a loss because of the need of selling it before it spoils.

"DAY'S WORK" IN AN OBSERVATION BALLOON

For the many thousands of words that have been written about the part aeroplanes are playing in the war there have been, comparatively, only a few dozen concerning the role and accomplishments of the observation balloon.

It is but a few years ago that a drop with parachute from a balloon was regarded as such a wonderful feat that it was heralded as the chief attraction at state fairs. Now it is an ordinary incident in the day's work of the fearless war observer. The details of this observation work, as told by a soldier who modestly refrained from slinging his name, seem of sufficient interest to bear reprinting.

"It is early morning," he writes. "The balloon is walked down to the ascension ground, the which follows, and the two officers who are to be observers for the day don their parachute attachments. The balloon is then toggled to the winch, and the observers step into the basket. One tests the telephone; the other carefully examines valve cord, rip cord and ballast. There is a salute and the giant cable slowly ascends.

"At 500 feet the which is stopped, while we take the strength of the wind, which at that height is usually about 12 miles an hour. Then up we go again, stopping at 1,000 feet to repeat the business. The wind is now 16 miles an hour. At every 500 feet we stop until the limit of 3,000 feet is reached. Then the day's work begins.

"We are 5,000 yards from the front line, and connection by telephone with the field batteries, and the 'heavies' behind, and we could, if we wished, talk with headquarters or with a friend in Paris. The completeness of the telephone exchange system is, indeed, a thing to marvel at when one is talking from the clouds.

"Our task is to direct the guns. Everything is worked out in minutes and no niggles. We, from our vantage point, must aid the gunners in finding their targets, and report on each shell that bursts. All day long the telephone apparatus is glued to our heads, and at regular intervals the glasses are glued to our eyes. Life is reduced to the query: 'Where did that one go?'

"We know the difference between delicate white clouds and the brownish yellow of mist, nor do we confound the black cloud that smells of battle with the blue-green, deadly gas shell.

"Sometimes we are drawn down in double-quick time as some especial danger threatens; sometimes we sit, legs over basket, waiting for the word that shall tell us our balloon is on fire, and that we must jump, trusting to our parachute to save our lives. The day's work is full of thrills.

"When at last 9 p. m. marks the close of our period of observation, and we come down for the last time that day, it is not unusual for an observer to buckle up, as if he couldn't stand on his legs, and have to be carried to bed. Biscuits and milk chocolate have kept him going all day, but now he wants nothing so much as sleep."

3,215 TONS OF COAL LOADED IN TEN HOURS

Middlesboro, Ky., July 6.—Fifty-nine railroad hoppers of fifty-five tons capacity each were loaded by miners in the employ of the Lynch, Ky., mine, of the United States Coal and Choke Company. This sets the record for production of any one mine during ten hours in this district, if not in the state. The maximum capacity of the mine is to be 12,000 tons daily. Two thousand new houses have been built for the use of prospective employees.

FIRST NIGHT IN TRENCH 'AWFUL'

Weird Experience Is Related
By Tommy; Afterward
It's Easy.

(Correspondent of the Associated Press.)

London, June 15.—What will the first night in the trenches be, is a question that thousands of American soldiers have faced perhaps with some misgiving, certainly with lively anticipation. The experience of many of them must be like that of a British plow-boy-soldier described by Lord Dunsany, captain of the Inniskilling Fusiliers.

"A can's first night in the front line is an epoch-making experience," he writes. "It is like a man's first vote, or his twenty-first birthday—it is a milestone in his life, marking the change from the mimic warfare behind the lines to the grim realities of actual conflict."

Recruit's First Night.

"Perhaps I can best explain how this experience affects a soldier by telling you the story of a recruit's first night in the trenches. Dick Cheeser, one of my men, was a plow-boy just past 18 when he enlisted, and not yet 19 when he went on his first sentry 'go' in the front line."

"It was a quiet night, and dawn was only an hour or so distant when Cheeser took his post. The corporal told him where to stand, warned him to keep a good lookout, and left him."

"There was Dick Cheeser, alone in the dark, with an army in front of him eighty yards away, a resourceful, crafty and desperate enemy. The stillness of the night only added to Cheeser's feeling of responsibility. The stillness awoke him. There had not been a shell all night. He put his head over the parapet gingerly and waited. Nobody fired at him. He felt somehow that the night was waiting for him, that something uncanny and unexpected would happen soon. He heard voices in a communication trench somewhere behind him; there were a few sentences of gruff, unintelligible conversation; the voices died away. There was a long silence. Cheeser felt to wondering whether the night was black or grey; he stared hard at the night to study its exact color; the night stared back at him, and seemed to be threatening him; it was gray, gray and awful, like a cat or a fox."

An Uncanny Feeling.

"It was uncanny, thought Cheeser. 'If shells would come, or Germans, or anything at all, you would know how to take it; but this deathly quiet, like a mist over huge valleys! Anything might happen. Cheeser waited and waited, and the night waited too. He felt that they were watching each other, the night and he, both crouching, both ready to spring."

"His mind grew so active that his head throbbed with the physical exertion of thinking. He was watching with eyes and ears and imagination, hoping to anticipate by a second or two the dread something that he felt was sure to happen soon in the ominous mist of No-Man's Land. He thought of throwing a stone out into the blackness, just to see what would happen. Then he began to wish for his boyhood's slingshot, so that he could catapult a nice round stone right across the blackness into the German line."

Night Remains Mystery.

"A little wind blew in the night, too cold for the time of year. It made for a moment a lull in the mist over No-Man's Land. Cheeser peered into it, but the mist closed round again. 'No, Night seemed to say, 'You can't guess my secret.' And the awesome hush intensified. What are they up to now? thought the sentry. What are those crafty enemies planning in all those miles of silence?"

"Even the very lights were few and far between. When one went up, far hills of shadow seemed to sit and brood over the valley; black shapes grew up and vanished in the shadow. The rocket faded and the hills went back into mystery again, and Cheeser still peered level over the ominous valley."

"All the dangers and sinister shapes and evil destinies that the sentry faced that night could not be pictured or described in mere words. It was only two hours that he stood there, and not a shell fell in all that time, not a German stirred."

"It is a weird and awful experience, that first night in the trenches. The next time it is an easy matter."

WOULD KILL OFF BOOIES BY PUTTING SNAKES IN TRENCHES

Los Angeles, July 6.—"Lonsome Jack" Allman, king of all rattlesnake catchers, offers to gather 10,000 side whinders or horned rattlesnakes if the government will let him dump them into trenches vacated to the Germans by the Americans and let the snakes do the rest. The side whinder is a death dealer extraordinary. strikes three times as fast as any other rattler and, unlike others, does not net on the heart, but paralyzes the nerves within twenty minutes.

Allman would have no trouble in gathering them in Arizona and the Imperial Valley, he says. The Germans, if they possessed such a deadly weapon, would not hesitate to use it, Allman believes.

"The beauty of my idea is that the rattler can live five or six months in captivity without either food or water and they will be just as effective during that time," says Allman. "I have an antidote for rattlesnake bite that could be supplied to anyone that handles them, but the Germans would not know what stung them."

"My idea would be to catch them and then soak their tails in warm water. Then the shell that rattles and gives warning could be removed without injury to the snake. Their fangs are so sharp that unless the warning is given with the rattles a person would hardly know what bit him. Side whinders range in size from four to twelve feet."

In every home where there is a baby there should also be a bottle of McGEHEE'S BABY ELIXIR. It may be needed at any time to correct sour stomach, wind colic, diarrhoea or summer complaint. It is a wholesome remedy, contains no opium, morphine or injurious drug of any kind. Price 25c and 50c per bottle. Sold by Ohio Co. Drug Co.

TO CALCULATE AMOUNTS OF PRODUCE

To Find the Number of Bushels of Grain or Shelled Corn in a Bin or Wagon Box.—Level the grain, multiply the length of the grain pile by its width and depth (all in feet) and divide by 14.

To Find the Number of Bushels of Corn in Shuck in a Crib or Box.—Level the corn, multiply the length of the corn pile by its width and depth (all in feet), divide by 3½. If the crib is round, multiply the distance around the crib by the diameter, and that product by the depth of the corn (all in feet) and divide by 14½.

To Find the Number of Bushels of Shucked or Husked Corn on the Ear in a Crib or Wagon Box.—Level the corn, multiply the length of the corn pile by its width and depth (all in feet), and divide by 2½. If the crib is round, multiply the distance around the stack in feet. Multiply this depth of the corn (all in feet), and divide by 10.

To Find the Number of Tons of Hay in a Mow.—Multiply the length by the width by the height (all in feet), and divide by 500, if the hay is not well settled. If it is well packed, divide by 450.

To Find the Number of Tons of Hay in a Rick.—Add the overthrow (the distance from the ground on one side over the top of the stack to the ground on the other side) to the width of the stack. Multiply this sum by itself. Multiply the result by the length of the rick, and divide by 15. Divide this number by 450 to 500, according as the hay is well settled or recently ricked.

To Find the Number of Tons of Hay in a Round Stack.—Measure the distance around the stack in feet. Multiply this number by itself. Multiply the product by the height of the stack, and divide by 15. This will give the cubic feet in the stack. Divide this number by 450 to 500 according as the hay is well settled or recently stacked.

HAS CLEVER CONTRIVANCE TO HARVEST CLOVER SEED

Greenville, S. C., July 6.—An ingenious machine for harvesting clover seed has been perfected by J. L. Cannada, a pioneer clover raiser near Greenville. Mr. Cannada devised an exhaust fan mounted on a wagon driven by a small gasoline engine. A mouthpiece connected with the fan is lowered over the cloverheads and the current of air lifts the seed out and deposits them into a suitable receptacle. The machine is said to work perfectly.

U. S. ARMY HAS AN ENOCH ARDEN

San Francisco, July 6.—The same destiny that tore William Shavchenko from his 17-year-old bride, Dora, in Russia six years ago and led her to believe that he had been executed for a political crime against the Czar has restored him to her in free America.

But now she is the wife of Michael Hakonoff and the mother of his 3-year-old son.

Shavchenko is in the United States army, a private at Camp Fremont, near here. And Dora Hakonoff loves this modern Enoch Arden just as she loved him when they were married in Rostov-on-Don.

Mrs. Hakonoff has left her present husband and sued for the possession of the child. She says she will ask an annulment of her marriage to him in 1914.

Wife Came To U. S.
After Shavchenko had been carried away by the Czar's troops and presumably executed his young wife came to the United States, where she married Hakonoff. Shortly after the birth of their son they quarreled and the wife left the husband.

She obtained work in a home near where Camp Fremont now is, and a few weeks ago an officer from the camp, accompanied by a private came to visit at the home. The private was Shavchenko.

"Our maid is a Russian," said the hostess when she learned of Shavchenko's nationality. "Suppose you talk together."

As they were about to be introduced the eyes of the Russian couple met and when the truth dawned upon them they rushed into each other's arms, much to the alarm of the army officer and his hostess.

Escaped Russian Guard.
Then Shavchenko told his story. He had escaped from the Russian guard, fled through Austria and eventually reached America.

"Not until I had shaken the dust of Europe did I dare write to you," he told his wife. "Only when I learned that they could not take me from America for a political offense did I write home. And always the answer came: 'We do not know where she is.'"

"Thank God that he put you in this one camp out of the many and brought you back to me!" wept Dora.

NEW PLANT HANDLES 32,000 SHELLS A DAY

Quantity if not capacity shipments will start soon from a new Government shell-loading factory in New Jersey, one of four such Government plants each of which is larger than any similar plant in the world.

When turning out 52,000 loaded shells a day under full operation the plant will use 2,000 tons of shells and explosives daily, the products of some 75 factories. More than 5,000 workmen will be required. Plans contemplate the employment of a large number of women. The marking of shells to designate size, load, and range will require 250,000 operations each day.

The plant has a total area of approximately 2,500 acres. More than 100 buildings, with an aggregate floor space of 1,300,000 square feet, will provide storage for shells and part and for material. A small city, with heating and lighting plants, water and sewage systems, hospitals, fire-fighting plant, and restaurants, will be housed by the employees. There is equipment to protect the health of those who work with poisonous gases, and a school for instruction in the loading of artillery ammunition with high explosives.

The operating plant consists of 13 shell-loading units, each independent of the other, with equipment for loading 13 sizes of shells, ranging from the recently developed 37-millimeter to 16 inches. On two sizes of shells the propelling charge also will be loaded, the shell and cartridge case being assembled at the plant. All other shells are assembled in France.

In the construction of the shell-loading units the problem was far greater than one of mere building. Immense fans have been installed to dispose of the poisonous fumes from the high explosives. When a unit is in operation the air in the loading room is changed every few minutes. Specially designed suits will be worn during work with the explosives.

FOCH'S PRIVATE LIFE SIMPLE; HE'S A GREAT FAMILY MAN

Paris, July 6.—Interest in the character of Gen. Ferdinand Foch, commander-in-chief of the allied forces, has resulted in revealing some of the secrets of his every-day life.

His name it seems, is of Celtic origin, "Foex," which means "fire," and he has the blue eyes of the Celt.

Before the war the general devoted his time between his family and reading the sport. History is his favorite work of literature, and he loves the works of the old French composers. He has a passion for antique furniture, and is particularly fond of trees and the great outdoors.

General Foch's tastes are simple. He eats sparingly, drinks wine and coffee but no spirituous liquor, and smokes small cigars.

He has a habit of letting his cigar go out, and every cigar he smokes must be lighted five or six times. For this reason he keeps an electric lighter in his motor car.

Horseback riding is the generalissimo's favorite exercise. He is much attached to a thoroughbred, which he bought a year before the war, and which goes wherever he goes.

His holidays the general spends at a little seaside place at Finistere, where he talks with the populace, who have great affection for him—particularly the children and young folks.

WITH THE PARAGRAPHERS.

The first battle of the Marne was historic in that its history was a record to the glory of the French troops; in the present battle the soldiers of the U. S. A. are finding their share of glory.—Baltimore American.

At this distance it looks as if the Austrian Emperor's presence at the Italian front didn't amount to much.—Dallas News.

Some of Napoleon's biographers have marveled at the fact that in all his years of campaigning he made no improvements whatever in the weapons of war, fighting his last battle, it is pointed out, with the same muskets he fought his first. But Napoleon had genius. He knew that anybody could duplicate new weapons if he produced them. His strategy was his own, and could not be matched by any other.—Charleston News and Courier.

MESSAGE TO WOMEN FROM MRS. WILSON

Washington, July 4.—This Independence day message was given today to the women of America by Mrs. Wilson, wife of the President:

"The greeting which I am glad to send to the women of our beloved country, who are playing so large and so noble a part in this day of our supreme test, can have but a single thought for its theme—the thought that is in all our hearts."

"That thought is that we are sustaining, not a government, but the very principle of our nation's life. The moral of the war is in the thoughts and aspirations and hopes of the women as well as of the men."

"They stand at the very center of every issue involved, as the men do, and in that sense the war is theirs. It is a war for what is humane and right. They can put all that is best of them into the struggle. And they are doing so."

"I deeply admire them, and am proud to stand with them. A new glory attaches to the Fourth of July because we are striving to make the world free."

GEORGIA HEN LAYS RARE AND WONDERFUL EGGS

Atlanta, Ga., July 6.—A hen belonging to Elijah Johnson, of Gwinnett county, Georgia, evidently brooding over the terrible war, has done her best in the way of prophesying victory for the United States. She laid an egg very plainly and conspicuously engraved with the Stars and Stripes, a V and the figure 1 on it. Wonderment grew when two days later she added to the collection another egg inscribed with an airship. But the crowning effort came one day later when the third egg was produced with the lines of a battleship upon it. It is an ingenious method of deduction Sheriff W. C. Darby, of Gwinnett County, and others have translated the egg marks to mean that the United States will win the war one year hence.

FRIDAY, JULY 12

Women can now be full-fledged men in Arkansas. The new constitution of that state not only gives the women the right to vote but makes them eligible to hold office and serve on juries.

An exchange says: "We personally do not want to touch anything made in Germany with a ten foot pole," and we are curious to know what they make in Germany with a ten foot pole.

With our issue of July the 5th the Republican started on its 31 year.
Not yet quite out of the draft age, but then we volunteered at the beginning of the war, and have been doing our level best every since.

Razors are now being issued to our soldiers in France. When our colored troops come to close conflict with the enemy they will probably throw away their guns and resort to their traditional weapon.

The Todd County Times announces a subscription raise to $1.50 a year, beginning with August 15. With the great rise in cost of producing a newspaper it is left only a choice between raising prices or going out of business.

Henry Ford was the largest single contributor to the national Democratic campaign fund two years ago, and has declared for the President for a third term, and now asks the Republicans of Michigan to send him to the United States senate.

Referring to the attitude of cabinet members toward the prohibition movement the Clip Sheet of the Board of Temperance says Mr. Daniels is the strongest and Mr. Burleson the weakest member of the cabinet. Most folks who have to deal with the postoffice department will agree the Clip Sheet has discovered the weakest.

In a letter to the press Judge Settle admits he is legally disqualified to be a candidate for reelection to the appellate bench, but says it has been the custom of state officials for forty years to disregard the law. If a judge of the highest court in the state may openly defy the law he has little excuse for asking the people to elect him to an office to enforce it on others.

"Politics is adjourned everywhere except in some Republican newspapers"—Hartford Herald.

Yes, Democrats of every section and every clime, with hundreds of thousands of partisan followers in Federal offices within the land, are not only perfectly willing, but extremely anxious to have Republican politics adjourn both now and forevermore, Worlds without end.

Coming from men so close to the throne, as Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Vice-President Marshall this talk of a third term for the President excites the serious attention of the country. In the midst of a world war the country should not be disturbed by a threat to break a century old precedent. The President could settle this anxiety with a word, but he does not say the word.

Don't let it escape your attention that on and after August 10 the Harford Republican will be $1.50 a year.
Those desiring to do so may pay one year in advance of that date at the old price of one dollar provided such payment is made before midnight of August 9. On account of the tremendous increase in the cost of publishing a newspaper more than six hundred daily and eighteen hundred weekly newspapers in the United States have gone to the wall within the last year. We are sure our patrons do not want their home paper to go out of existence, and the only way we can continue to publish it is to ask our patrons to indulge us the privilege of raising our price as every other business has done. Every other thing you buy has advanced from fifty to two hundred per cent in the last two years, and your county paper is the single commodity you are buying now the price of which has not nearly advanced.

The winning of the war is now the first purpose of mankind. No sacrifice is too great to be made to achieve that end. Wealth is being confiscated through taxation, food is being rationed and men are being drafted for service. Because of the peril that confronts us we are tempted, at the price of criticism, to suggest that we add another day to the week for the period of the war. The Huns know no sabbath in their mad efforts to chain the world to their chariot wheels, and may we not justly employ that day in the necessary and useful task of producing imperative supplies for our armies. Might not the hours from Nine to One be reserved for attending church services and the remainder of the day devoted to the righteous service of producing those substances without which our armies in the field would be helpless. If the Lord is on our side He would make due allowance for our imperative necessities.

There seems to be no longer any doubt about the national congress adopting prohibition for the period of the war, and the war on liquor will never end. The evil of the liquor traffic has sunk deeply into the conscience of the nation, and the days of the saloon in these United States are forever passed. But it were idle to hope for a final and complete suppression of the use of intoxicants through act of the national congress.
The appetite of mankind may not be radically changed by legislative enactment. It may be expected that substitutes stimulants will spring up in every nook and corner. No secular force see what system may grow up from the ruins now being wrought, but consulting human history, as it is written in the appetites and customs of all ages, the assumption is warranted that stimulating beverages will not disappear from the earth. But let us hope that a milder method of soothing tired nerves may result from the overthrow of the fiercer fire of alcohol.

Upon reading our contemporary's dissertation on our vacation, hobnobing in Hoosier, we could see with an eye of hope the stately golden rod, pen-dant with autumnal beauty along the Hoosier lanes, sniff the Indian Summer mists hanging low in the shadowy valley, near the soothing rhythm of the humming birds and smell the aroma of the homely jimson-weed as we arose at dawn from our grassy roadside bed. Aye, the handouts too; we could taste the left over chicken and the apple pies. Speed the time when waiving the ferryman a cheerful good bye, we start on our Hoosier hike. The orchards will be ripe with fruit, there'll be melons on the vines and roasting ears in the fields. But nay, Bro. Greep, we shall neither beg nor steal, we'll eat three square meals a day and do never a lick of work. We can't tell you now, but when we return we'll tell you how it was done. And we shall not lie to a single soul, but tell the plain unvarnished truth. And more than that, Bro. Greep, we'll refuse many an invitation to eat and sleep. When we return we'll tell you how the trick was turned. It is all in knowing how.

OFFICERS CHEATED SEN. JONES CHARGES

Washington, July 6.—The twelve billion dollar army appropriation bill was completed to-day by Congress and now goes to the President. The conference report on the measure was approved by both the House and Senate after only brief consideration.

Dissatisfaction was voiced in the Senate over the elimination at the insistence of the House conferees of the amendment by Senator Jones, of Washington, providing for the sale by the government of uniform and equipment to army officers at cost. Senator Jones charged that private dealers are guilty of "outrages" profiteering, and estimates that the 240,000 officers in the army are being mulcted of $48,000,000 annually.

Citing a specific case, the Washington senator said he had been informed that a contract to furnish watches costing $10 to officers had been made at one camp at a rate of $21 for each watch. Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, said the circumstances suggested bribery, and Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Senate Military Committee, promised an investigation and added that the refusal of the House to accept the Jones amendment was "outrageous."

KENTUCKY POLITICS.

Politics, like the poor, we have always with us, even in the midst of war times. A number of contests for nominations are to be settled at the August primary.

Chief interest in Kentucky this year centers in the Republican contests. Judge B. J. Bethrum, of Somerset, and Dr. Ben L. Bruner, of Louisville, are candidates for the senatorial nomination. In well-informed political circles it is claimed that Bethrum has all the best of it, but victories are never won until the ballots are counted.

For Judge of the Court of Appeals in the second Appellate district Judge
M. L. Heavrin, of this city, and F. J.
Pentecost, of Henderson, are the aspirants. Mr. Heavrin lives nearer the center of the district and in the center of a group of the strongest Republican counties in the district, and, having been for eight years a member of the Republican state central committee, is the better known, and his nomination is assured.

The contest for the nomination for congress in the Fourth district is between I. S. Mason, of Ohio county and John P. Haswell, of Breckenridge. In the Third district Mr. Likens and William Henry Jones, both of Glasgow, and Senator Huntsman, of Bowling Green, are making a three-cornered fight for who shall sit in Bob Thomas' seat at Washington. The race is between Jones and Hunt-man. In the Eleventh district Robson and Edwards are having more than a boy's fight for the nomination to the seat so long held by Caleb Powers.

Press Kimball, of Lexington, has entered the race against Ollie James for the United States senate, but the Democrats will hardly take Kimball's candidacy seriously. There are no real contests on among the Democratic candidates for congress, the incumbents all having easy sailing before the primary. In the Second Appellate court district Judge Settle, who is a candidate for a third term,
is opposed by Judge J. W. Henson, of Henderson. Little interest is expressed in this race, but the nomination will probably go to Settle.

With Self Starter and Electric Lights

MOLINE

UNIVERSAL TRACTOR

It Solves The Farm Help Problem.

Model D

Because of its ideal design, construction and performance, this new Moline-Universal enables one man to farm more land and produce more food than ever before possible. It is the world's most dependable farm hand.

New features include self-starter; electric lights; electrical governor; perfected overhead-valve, four-cylinder engine that is free from vibration; complete enclosure of all moving parts; differential lock which increases traction.

Drop forgings, heat-treated parts, steel cut gears and unusually large bearings add extra years of endurance.

These new features, together with the well known Moline-Universal type—all the weight on two wheels, one-man control and ability to do all farm work including cultivating—make the Moline-Universal Model D the best tractor money can buy.

Conservatively rated at 9-18, the new Moline-Universal has ample power for heavy belt work, and can plow as much in a day with two plows as the ordinary three-plow tractor, because of its greater speed. Yet it is light enough for such work as cultivating, mowing, etc., which do not require so much power.

We will be glad to tell you all about this wonderful tractor. The next time you are in town call on us.

COAL RATIONING TO BE IN FORCE.

Washington, July 8.—Domestic consumers of coal will be put on strict rations under plans being put in operation to-day by the fuel administration to prevent a repetition next winter of the coal famine which caused suffering over the country during the last cold season.

Householders will be allowed only the amount of coal necessary to heat their homes to a temperature of 68 degrees, and it is announced that those who fail to observe conservation rules and eliminate waste will have only themselves to blame if they are without fuel before the cold season ends.

Consumers who obtain coal in excess of their allotments or who knowingly violate rules and regulations of the fuel administration will be prosecuted.

WILL GRADE UP COAL.

The United States Fuel Administration is taking active measures to improve the grade of coal sent to market. When speeding up in every department of manufacturing is made necessary by war demands business can not afford to be handicapped by low grade fuel. Thousands of tons of slate, copperas and dirt cumber the already over-burdened railroads, and the Fuel Administrator insists this cumbering weight must be left with the waste at the mines. Agents are being sent directly to the mines to investigate such conditions, to see to the correction of the trouble complained of. Where mines are found deliberately shipping low grade coal definite action will be taken to stop it.

Load It Clean.

(By Rufus T. Stroh.)

It's a waste of a job that you're facin'—

You fellows with shovels an' drills—
For the railroad an' fuel's is racin'.

An' so is the shops an' the mills;
An' there musn't be haitin' or slowin'
Of engine or belt or machine,
So dig into the work—make a show-in—

But in loadin' the coal, keep it clean!

If your output is dirty an' bony,
An' you're blind to the slate an' the rock,

Why, your love for your country is phony,
Or your patriotism's in hock;
For you've got to be whitt, or you're yellow,

Since there ain't nny 'twixt-an-between,
So come on—be a regular fellow—
When you're loadin' the coal, load it clean!

If a transport chock-full of your yunkers,

Takin' your boy an' my boy to France,
Has a load of bum coal in her bunkers,

She's got less than a ghost of a chance.

For she's bound to destruction an'
ruin

If a submarine bobs on the scene,
So, for God's sake, take care what you're doin'!

When you're loadin' the coal, load it
clean!

Are You One of Them?

There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a week or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. R. Searl, Baldwinville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets: "I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle home and the first dose relieved me wonderfully, and I kept on taking them until I was cured." These tablets do not only relieve pain but after the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.

"ATABOYS," LONDON NOW CALLS YANKS

London, July 6.—Just when Londoners had become accustomed to calling the American soldiers "Yanks," they've learned a new appellation for them which they declare is even more appropriate.

It's "Attaboys!"

American baseball fans will recognize its source immediately.

"Yanks" gained its popularity before the great American pastime was played so generally in England and in France.

When the English heard the Yankees cry "Attaboy!" as some player hit out a three-bagger, they immediately started an inquiry into the meaning of the term. One English paper described it thus:

"The term expresses the satisfaction of the spectator with some meritorious performance of a player; literally it means, 'That's the stuff, my boy!'"

All the London papers took it up, with the result that in London, at least, the Americans are now almost unanimously called "Attaboys."

SINK FIVE U-BOATS.

An Atlantic Port, July 4.—Destruction in European waters of five German submarines by British transports, and by American and British destroyers conveying them, was described by passengers who arrived here to-day on an English liner. The transports, one of which was carrying 7,000 American soldiers to Europe, accounted for three of the U-boats, and the destroyers sank the other two, according to the voyagers. Officers of the liner confirmed their stories.

The passengers witnessed the torpedoing of the 5,436-ton British freighter Orissa, which was part of their convoy, when the fleet was approximately a day out, steaming west from the British Isles. The Orissa, bound in ballast for the United States, was sent to the bottom by an unseen submarine. A moment later, however, an American destroyer in the protecting fleet detected the underside boat below the surface and dropped a depth bomb, making a direct hit, according to the story related here. The same evening a U-boat was sighted by the passenger vessel, whose gunners sank it by shelling.

The other three submarines were destroyed according to the returned travelers, on the eastward trip of another convoy. They declared that a large British transport with 7,000 American troops aboard rammed a submarine, which was sighted with two others in the sudden lifting of a heavy fog. Almost simultaneously with the disappearance of the first submarine beneath the transport's bow, the big ship's gunners accounted for another of the German craft, while a British destroyer disposed of the third.

U. S. CASUALTIES

AGGREGATE 11,086

Washington, July 7.—Casualties in the army and Marine Corps in the American expeditionary forces increased by 703 during the week, compared with 497 the previous week, and aggregate 11,086 with the inclusion of to-day's army list giving 117 names and the Marine Corps list giving 53 names. Total deaths, including 291 men lost at sea, men killed in action, dead of wounds, disease, accident and other causes numbered 4,414—army men, 3,917; Marines, 497. The wounded aggregate 6,169—army men, 5,200; Marine, 969. Those missing in action, including prisoners, total 503—army men 452; Marines, 51.

Of the week's increase 438 were army men and 265 Marines. Killed in action and other deaths numbered 285, those wounded totaled 303 and the missing and prisoners 115.

The army casualties summary as officially announced to-day follows:

Killed in action (including 291 lost at sea), 1,574; died of wounds, 532; died of disease, 1,322; died of accident and other causes, 489; wounded in action, 5,200; missing in action (including prisoners), 452. Total, 9,569.

The Marine Corps casualty summary follows:

Death, 497; wounded, 969; in hands of enemy, 2; missing, 49; Total, 1,517.

Officers included in the Marine Corps summary were: Deaths, 21; wounded, 28; missing 2. The army summary does not note the number of officers included.

Uncle Sam's training camp theaters will do a $3,500,000 business in the first year of operation under the Commission on Training Camp Activities if the people back home will provide the soldiers with their tickets by sending them Smilge Books, says the Smilge Division of the commission. Smilge coupons to the amount of $355,000 have been redeemed to date.

Nearly 2,000,000 girls and boys have volunteered for the United States Garden Army in the Department of the Interior. Their service flag bears a cross rake and hoe with the letters U. S. G. in blue on a field of white with a red border. The enlistment entails a pledge on the part of the child to use efforts to increase food production by cultivating one or more crops under a garden supervisor or teacher chosen for this work to make such reports as may be required.

MORE SMALL ARMS FOR EXPEDITIONARY FORCES

German timidity before American pistol fighters armed with American 45 caliber automatic pistols has brought about a change in the equipment of the American Expeditionary Forces by the War Department, and the Ordnance Department is rushing production of these weapons. About 3,000 are turned out daily and production is increasing. The impression exists that one shot from an American 45 takes a man out of action completely. Men hit from the smaller German pistol frequently continue in action effectively. The 45 caliber was adopted by the United States Army in 1911.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

The Department of Labor reports adjustment of 39 industrial disputes during a recent week. This is a record. Eleven strikes and two threatened strikes were adjusted. Included in the strikes settled was that of machinist at the Curtiss Aeroplane Co. plant, Buffalo, where 300 men quit and 15,000 were affected indirectly.

FIGHTING NEAR CLOUDS.

Ensign Stephen Potter, United States Naval Reserve Force, killed in action with German planes April 25 last, was the first American naval aviator to shoot down and destroy a German seaplane, according to a Navy Department statement.

The report states that on March 19, 1918, a long-distance reconnaissance of the German coast was made by large American flying boats operating from a British Royal Air Force station. Ensign Potter was one of two American naval aviators accompanying this expedition, and Potter was successful in shooting down a German seaplane which attacked the reconnaissance formation. A second enemy seaplane found safety in running away.

Potter's death reflected credit on his courage. He was killed in a fight with seven enemy single-seaters. He was second pilot to a British Air Force captain, who was with him when he shot down the German plane in March. Two British planes had flown to a point 6 miles from Hinder Light, when two enemy planes headed toward them. The British planes closed on the nearest German and opened fire. Two more hostile planes then appeared overhead and attacked vigorously, while three other enemy planes passed astern. The two British planes dived and speeded westward under continuous volleys from the rear. One of the Germans disappeared.

Of the seven Germans in action, four were attacking Potter, who fell behind his companion and began to stagger. Potter dodged but was broadside to all the enemy machines and under their fire only 50 feet from the water. His companion, 250 feet above, saw Potter's machine burst into flame, come down part of the way under control, then crash on the port wing tip. Potter was seen last on the surface of the water amid flames, which turned suddenly to a huge cloud of smoke. When the pall had cleared not even the wreckage was visible and the circling enemy disappeared.

Farm Department

The Belgian hare is one of the best rabbits for table use. It weighs more than most breeds, develops rapidly, and the quality of the meat is superior to all the others. The Flemish giant is a Belgian hare bred exclusively large size, with the result that the meat is coarser and less delicate in flavor. These characteristics are considered by some persons as desirable, but this is largely a matter of individual taste.

Cut Weeds Before Seeds Mature.

Many weeds are propagated only by seeds. Weed seeds are produced in large numbers along roadsides, fence rows, and ditch banks, in vacant fields, and in waste places, and the seeds are scattered by wind, water, birds, and other agents. By cutting the weeds before the seeds are sufficiently mature to germinate, an enormous amount of trouble and labor and loss could be avoided; but only the most progressive farmers do this.

On Every Farm—100 Hens.

There should be 100 hens on every farm in the United States, declares a recent publication from the office of the Secretary of Agriculture, Circular 107. And we should obtain 100 eggs from every hen. With approximately 6,000,000 farms, that would mean 600,000,000 hens and 60,000,000,000 eggs per year, according to the calculations of the writers, who then add that that number of eggs constitutes a military resource not to be ignored.

One hundred hens on every farm is not a particularly big contract. There is hardly a farm in the United States but could support that number of hens practically on its waste materials and without materially added cost. One hundred hens to a farm is considerably less than the average number of hens to a farm in many of the better poultry-producing sections of the country. It is an average that could easily be maintained in the sections of the country where the average per farm is now lower. One hundred eggs from every hen, while far below what could be obtained with proper encouragement of fowls, is considerably more than the average egg production the country over. Suggestions for attaining this average are given in the publication mentioned.

The British breeds of sheep amply demonstrate the possibility of obtaining large yields of wool and meat from the same animals, and with both commodities in strong demand the flocks of the future will develop still further upon a wool and mutton basis.

Don't treat lightly the boy who sells "hot roasted peanuts" at the ball park. Peanuts are "a splendid food, cheap and nutritious." The United States Department of Agriculture says so.

Corn in Silo Saves $37 An Acre On A 50-Bushel Crop.

At least 37 per cent of the digestible material of the corn plant is left in the stover when the ears only are used. When corn is ensiled this 37 per cent goes into the silo with the 63 per cent in the ear. The importance of this saving will be more apparent when given a money value. With a yield of 50 bushels an acre the value of grain is $75, at $1.50 a bushel. Since the stover contains more than one-third of the food nutrients, it is worth at least one-half as much as the grain, or $37.50. How many farmers will willingly leave in the field $37.50 an acre? Yet this is done in many sections of the country where the corn is husked and the stover left in the field.

How corn in Shock Loses.

But suppose the dry stover is fed as roughage. Even then it is not saved as completely as in silage. When, under ordinary farm conditions, corn is cured in the shock, the loss of dry matter is approximately 25 per cent and may be as high as 45 per cent. These losses are due to the breaking off of leaves by the wind and in handling, and to destructive fermentations. The loss of dry matter in the silo is very slight when the silo is tight and the silage well packed at the time of filling. As silage, the cornstalk is all consumed, but as stover, unless it is shredded, only the leaves are eaten, and even then a great part of the stalk is discarded. Some feeding experiments show that even in shredded stover the portion discarded is as high as 31 per cent. This is in addition to the loss of dry matter during the curing process.

Make Silage of Immature Crop.

Too frequently an unfavorable season like that of last year results in the loss of the whole corn plant or in immature soft corn that is of little value. By far the best method to utilize corn which is immature at harvesting time is to put it into the silo. Even frosted corn will make satisfactory silage if harvested at once. If it becomes dry it may be saved by adding water during the filling process.

The making of as much silage as can be used will do much to conserve the feed supply. Have you planned to fill that silo?

An Englishman in charge of fifty mules sent to the front untrained and more or less wild writes home: "I have never allowed a switch to be used, or mule to be badly treated by beating, nor allowed them to be put in stocks when being shod. Kindness has paid in a wonderful way. Our mules let us do what we like with them. There are still one or two timid ones, but we have no difficulty in harnessing, shoeing or handling, and they are the most willing and sensible of beasts, except when they are up against a load which they can not move, and in that case they jib. They have no disease of any kind. Indeed, I was congratulated the other day in having the best-conditioned mules in the division, not a poor one amongst them."

See that the pigs do not lose one hour on the road to profitable hogs. See that you supply their wants. The pig has likes and dislikes, just as you and I. Of course, ordinarily, he will eat most anything in any form at any time. But when he is on full feed, receiving all that he can eat every day, his feeder must cater to the pig's appetite. His feed must be tempting, palatable and suitable to his desires. The big thing which interferes with gain of a fat hog is the loss of appetite. The appetite must be whetted by tasty foods. Many breeders use molasses as an appetizer.

NEGRO SOLDIERS ARE HANGED FOR ASSAULT

Camp Dodge, Ia., July 5.—Three negro soldiers, convicted by court-martial of "assaulting and outraging" a 17-year-old white girl on the cantonment grounds the night of May 24, were hanged here to-day with virtually the entire division witnessing the executions.

The three traps were sprung simultaneously at 9:09 o'clock and death was almost instantaneous. The negroes marched onto the scaffolds singing "God Have Mercy On My Soul."

The negroes were Nelson Johnson, of Tusculum, Ala.; Stanley Trumble, of Stroud, Ala., and Fred Allen, of Georgiana, Ala., all selective service men.

Johnson and Trumble were declared by military police officers to have confessed their complete guilt, but Allen, while admitting his presence when the crime was committed, maintained he had not outraged the girl.

Several Spectators Fainted. Three negro soldiers among the spectators fainted when the men dropped to their death and another ran amuck. He started on a dead run directly toward the scaffold, but guards overpowered him. A white soldier also fainted.

Four negroes were arrested the morning after the assault, which occurred shortly before midnight May 24. One suspect was acquitted when it was established that he was not near the scene of the crime.

With a young soldier escort the girl was sitting on the hillside when, according to her story at the trial, four negroes approached. One of them represented himself as a military policeman, struck her escort a blow on the head and in the stomach, dazing him.

The girl's screams and the alarm sounded by her escort when he recovered aroused the camp. Military police threw out a dragnet that resulted in the arrest of the men early the next morning. A summary court-martial started a few days afterward, but the finding of the court was not announced until yesterday, after it had been reviewed and approved by President Wilson.

Both the girl and her escort were from Des Moines, Iowa.

Doing Good.

Few medicines have met with more favor or accomplished more good than Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. John F. Jantzen, Delamont, Sask., says of it, "I have used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy myself and in my family, and can recommend it as being an exceptionally fine preparation."

SUBMARINES SUNK.

Washington.—With the co-operation of American destroyers the allied naval forces have destroyed 65 per cent of the submarines sent out by Germany, according to a statement of Senator Swanson, of Virginia, chairman of the senate naval affairs committee. The German submarines, he said, are being sunk faster than they can be built.

"The allies have destroyed 65 per cent of the submarines sent out by Germany," Senator Swanson said. "That is five per cent more than I spoke of during the raid along our Atlantic coast. We are gaining against them all the time. We are destroying their submarines faster than they can replace them."

No Longer Feared.

The senator said he was of the opinion that the submarine or submarines engaged in the recent raid had gone back to Germany. "I look for it to return or another one to come in its place, but that will make no difference in our plans," he continued. It will not interfere with the troop movements to France.

The senator explained that it was the opinion of naval experts that there was only one submarine in the recent raid.

"One could have done all the destruction we know about," he said. "The military effect of the raid was nothing."

Doing hard work in a bent or stooping position puts a strain on the back that is painful. If the muscles have become strained, you can't get rid of it without help. The great penetrating power of BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT will appeal to you most strongly at such times, because it is the very thing you need. Price 20c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Ohio Co. Drug Co.

BABY DROWNED.

George, the nine-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shocklee, who live near Livermore, was drowned in a slop bucket a few days ago. He had just learned to crawl and had drawn himself up to the slop pail and fell in head first. Before he was missed from the house he had drowned. The funeral was conducted from the residence, with interment in the Pleasant Hills burying grounds.

LABOR-SAVING DEVICES.

The following suggestions for making a little labor go a long way have been collected from various sources and are here tabulated:

Plan your work long ahead, and keep a long way ahead of your work.

See that your machinery is in first-class condition; don't waste time with repairs in the field; have plenty of grease on the bearings and keep all the cutting edges sharp.

Use a two-row cultivator with three mules; it will do the work of two men and four mules.

Don't loaf on rainy days.

Keep the boys and girls working; but remember that they are only boys and girls, and don't try to make them do the work of men and women.

Place orders early for fertilizers, seeds and implements, then you will not waste time waiting for them to reach you.

Wherever you can, use machinery to save man-power.

Co-operate heartily with your neighbors for such work as filling the silos, threshing, etc. In many localities great results have been accomplished by "pooling" labor. If you can't afford to buy all the machinery you need, club with your neighbors and between you equip the locality with the implements which can be used to the best advantage.

The government maintains free employment agencies. If you need help, ask your county agent.

If you feel "blue," "No account," lazy, you need a good cleaning out. HERBINE is the right thing for that purpose. It stimulates the liver, tones up the stomach and purifies the bowels. Price 60c. Sold by Ohio Co. Drug Co.

SOME WAR CHICKEN!

A carrier woman recently sauntered out in the main street to buy chickens from a dealer. She went in to one of the shops and got some.

In the evening she went in a hurry to the same shop and addressed the shopman:

"See here, when I buy chickens from you again I don't want any of your airplane ones."

The shopman looked puzzled, and inquired "What do you mean ma'am?"

"I mean the sort that are all wings and machinery, and no meat."

Life Was a Misery

Mrs. F. M. Jones, of Palmer, Okla., writes:

"From the time I entered into womanhood . . . I looked with dread from one month to the next. I suffered with my back and bearing-down pain, until life to me was a misery. I would think I could not endure the pain any longer, and I gradually got worse. . . Nothing seemed to help me until, one day, . . . I decided to

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"I took four bottles," Mrs. Jones goes on to say, "and was not only greatly relieved, but can truthfully say that I have not a pain. . .

"It has now been two years since I took Cardui, and I am still in good health. . . I would advise any woman or girl to use Cardui who is a sufferer from any female trouble."

If you suffer pain caused from womanly trouble, or if you feel the need of a good strengthening tonic to build up your run-down system, take the advice of Mrs. Jones. Try Cardui. It helped her. We believe it will help you.

STRAY STREAKS

(By Fluke McFluke.)

It appearing from careful investigation that Claude Blankenship, who is a Republican, was able to get the Carnival dancing pavillion and the best of the other good features in tents, set down or up just in front of his own domicile, we hereby offer apologies to Coons, Greep and Doe Ford, for intimating that they worked politics in getting the carnival in their section.

A. Rial says that Hill Riley said he heard Ernest Hirkhead say Ad Howard told him that Mr. Alce Curtis was wanting some one to give him dancing lessons, as he, Mr. Alce said 'twas an accomplishment most any young man should pride himself on.

We are not going to call or even mention John Henry's name in this column this week. We accidentally discovered that he rather likes it and we'll be jumped-up and blowed if we do anything he likes if we find it out first.

A man in hard luck when he takes a trip down the river on Saturday and after getting a good long way from home the dumgoolzed motor boat absolutely refuses to run a lick, when he was depending upon said boat to get him back home for Sunday School and preaching, and, then on Monday (with water oozing from the painful and smarting blisters, brought on by hours spent in cranking a dead motor that ought to be buried in — in the Kaiser's bosom) take a good, sound and apparently much deserved drubbing for enforced absence (which you can't explain) over Sunday. If you want to clear a man put me on the jury and then introduce only circumstantial evidence against him, tho be it ever so strong.

This burg does not have any old malds, but it does contain two or three big covays of near old malds and if the war goes on for long, taking the best of the gallants away, it looks like it might be time to start some sort of an old time Brigham Young society, or else these malds are bound to become more numerous as they grow older, tho we will admit they age very, very slowly.

WITHDRAW PRIVILEGE OF CHOOSING SERVICE

Washington, July 9.—Instructions have been sent by Provost Marshal General Crowder to all local draft boards ordering the cessation of the privilege hitherto granted registered men of selecting the arm of the service in which they desire to enlist when volunteering. It was learned officially, however, that no action has been taken to stop the voluntary enlistment in the navy, of men of Class 1.

Secretary Baker said to-day he had conferred with Maj. Gen. Crowder regarding this loss of draft men to the army, but that no decision had been reached to withdraw permission for such enlistments.

It is the duty of such Inspector to inspect the scales of mines, merchants and in fact all scales used for public purposes. The fee for such inspection must be paid by the owner of the scales. The office has not in most counties proven a very agreeable one to him, due chiefly to the fact that merchants and others complain at having to pay the inspection fee.

WESTERN COAL FIELD.

The year just closed was a busy one in the western coal field. The total production was 9,876,533 tons. The total production for the state was 27,355,727 tons. The coal lands of Kentucky embrace only 29 of the 120 counties, and is divided into what are called eastern and western fields. There are ten counties in the western field and nineteen counties in the eastern field. The eastern field is confined wholly to the mountain counties, and the western to the Green river counties. The production of the western field by counties was:

Many of the beautiful elms that adorn Hartford lawns are dying. Some tree disease attacks the leaves and they slowly wither up and die. It is a regrettable occurrence as it requires years to replace these beautiful shade trees.

The Young Ladies Tea Room has been moved to the next door to the Star Theater. The use of the building and lights was donated by Messrs. Heavrin and Harrass. Operation the Fourth and Saturday netted the Red Cross treasury more than one hundred dollars.

Mr. J. E. Davidson and family were pleasantly surprised Saturday by the arrival of Mr. Davidson's sister, Mrs. Henry Hartzell, accompanied by her husband and their daughter, Miss Margaret, of Dodge City, Kansas. They will spend a large portion of the summer with relatives in Ohio county.

Our old friend Gus Evans, of Fordsville, was in town yesterday. We first knew Gus when he clerked for the Fiscal court of which he was a member. Gus made the folks know he was a member of the court, and while he was not always right he was always in dead earnest about things.

George M. Maddox has been transferred from Camp Pike, Arkansas to Camp Hancock, Georgia, and assigned to the Machine Gun Training school. Mr. Maddox is a former Rockport boy. In a letter to the editor of this paper he promises, when more familiar with the machine gun operation, to write for us a letter describing it.

If there is anything interesting because of its extreme age, in your neighborhood, report it to us as a new item. We don't mean old malds, old grudges nor old scandals, but old people, old residences, old barns, old heirlooms, or anything the age and history of which would be of public interest.

Mr. Jesse T. Hill, a farmer living in Ohio county near South Carrollton, died yesterday, and his remains will be buried today at the Smallhous Baptist church. Mr. Hill died of tuberculosis, of which trouble he had been a sufferer for some time. He leaves a wife and three children. Mr. Hill was an excellent citizen, and leaves many friends to regret his untimely death.

SAMPLE ADJOURNMENT.

Louisville and Jefferson county constitute a Congressional district as well as an Appellate district, and in this district there is but one Democratic candidate for Congress and one for Judge of the Court of Appeals, likewise only one Republican for each of the aforesaid offices. In Louisville and Jefferson county, at the last election, the Republicans elected every city and county officer voted for, yet when the two Republican candidates, in compliance with the President's request that politics be adjourned, proposed to the Democrats that they get together and select the office which they most desired, having the other candidate resign, or get out of the race, leaving only the Democratic candidate as an aspirant for the office of their choice, the Republican only, as an aspirant for the other, the proposition met with the coldest indifference and absolute refusal, therefore saying we don't want an election without a partisan campaign and as far as we are concerned, Republican politics may be damned.—We are going to scrap for the pie if the country goes to hell. The only comment we have noticed from any Democratic newspaper endorsed the action of the above Democratic candidates, saying that the Republicans were trying to work something. We don't know whether the Hartford Herald knows about the above facts or not, because it has said "hurry a word about the matter."
